

Name: _____

Date: _____

A Day in Ancient Egypt

Long ago, in a land called Ancient Egypt, people lived near the Nile River. The river gave them water for drinking, farming, and fishing. Most people worked as farmers, growing wheat and vegetables. Some people were craftsmen, making jewelry, pottery, and tools.

Children went to school to learn reading, writing, and math. The pharaoh, who was like a king, ruled the country and lived in a big palace. People also worshiped many gods and goddesses, and they built large temples to honor them. Life in Ancient Egypt was busy, but people were proud of their culture and inventions.

Circle the best answer

1-What did most people in Ancient Egypt do for work?

- a) Sail on ships
- b) Work as farmers
- c) Build cars

2-Who was the pharaoh in Ancient Egypt?

- a) A teacher
- b) A farmer
- c) The king of the country

3-Where did people in Ancient Egypt get water for drinking and farming?

- a) The Nile River
- b) The desert
- c) The mountains

4-What did children learn at school in Ancient Egypt?

- a) Reading, writing, and math
- b) Flying kites and sports
- c) Cooking and fishing

5-Why did people build large temples in Ancient Egypt?

- a) To store food
- b) To honor gods and goddesses
- c) To play games

Nile River

